

How can I comment on a proceeding where you have not even published the exact proposal? How can you evaluate a proposal when you don't allow enough time for public comments? How can you fulfill your mandate to serve the public interest when you ignore overwhelming public input in order to make your decision? How can the public be informed when the media charged with that responsibility has an inherent conflict-of-interest in doing so? In order to honor democracy and freedom you must strengthen, not weaken your protection of diversity in our media.
